Snow Cruiser Delayed at Upper Sandusky

EXPECTED TO ARRIVE HERE TONIGHT IF—

Crew Members Work to Repair Hydraulic Braking
System.

OIL LINE BREAK REPAIRED

Mishap Thrd to Befall Huge
Craft Since Departure
From Chicago.

If the obstacles on the peaceful Ohio landscape do not bring new trouble to the 35-ton snow cruiser, Mansfield will get its long delayed view of the 55-foot machine sometime this evening.

The cruiser, designed to carry Admiral Byrd and his expedition over the empty wastes of the Antarctic region, was still in Upper Sandusky this afternoon while mechanics worked to repair an oil line in the hydraulic braking system which broke earlier today.

Crew members hoped to resume their trip later this afternoon, reaching Mansfield sometime tonight, but the exact time was indefinite. If it does get this far, the cruiser will remain here overnight, and leave tomorrow morning for Ashland, Lodi and Akron on its trip from Chicago to Boston.

The snowmobile left Gomer, O., at 4:15 a. m. today and went 12 miles to Beaver dam where a broken oil line brought the procession of state highway patrolmen and creeping traffic to a halt for two hours while repairs were made.

Makes Repairs in Own Shop.
The 35-ton machine reached Upper Sandusky at 10:45 a. m. where further repairs were necessary, made by the crew in the machine shop of the huge cruiser.

Leaving Upper Sandusky about 1 p. m., the cruiser was to resume its journey toward Mansfield.

Obstacles still to be faced were Bucyrus and Crestline where a nearby detour will present a problem.

Highway patrolmen from the Mansfield sub-station, one of whom met the cruiser at the Indiana state line will escort the ponderous machine thru the city on its way to Akron and to Erie, Pa., where extensive repairs will be made.

Since the snow cruiser left Chicago where it was assembled, it has had three mishaps. It collided with a truck at Columbia City, Ind., hit a bridge and went into a creek just east of Gomer, O., Saturday. After a three-day rest for repairs, the oil break today was the latest.

Several days behind schedule on its trip to New York, the snow cruiser's crew, annoyed by caustic remarks from bystanders, met (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Weatherman Predicts Light
Fall for This Evening.

Although snow fell last Saturday, the weatherman predicted it for the first time today.

He forecast light local snows tonight and generally fair weather Thursday. The temperature is not expected to change much.

From a low of 34 degrees this morning, the mercury climbed only nine degrees to 43 at noon. Yesterday's high was 46 and the 24-hour average was 40, three degrees below normal.

GIBRALTAR—(AP)—The British steamer Egba, 4,989 tons, was fired on by a German submarine about 240 miles east of the Madeira Islands today, according to an official message received by Gibraltar naval authorities.

Forget Party Politics to Beat Bigelow

Davey Lambasts Plan As
'Impossible'; Bricker
Speaks Tomorrow.

While the Richland County Emergency committee continued its campaign to defeat the Bigelow $50-a-month proposal which comes before voters next Tuesday, state political leaders of both parties publicly condemned the plan. As the drive entered its final week, former Gov. Martin L. Davey added his voice to the chorus of Ohio political bigwigs who have lambasted the old age pension and initiative amendments.

Davey in a radio address last night, predicted that passage of the Bigelow plan would place upon the state an impossible tax burden, would drive industries and wealthy people from Ohio, and would gradually impoverish those not benefiting by the $50 a-month pension.

Tomorrow night Governor John W. Bricker will take up the radio campaign against the pension plan with a talk over a statewide network scheduled for 7:15 p. m.

Others Join In Drive.

Others who have spoken against the Bigelow plan, include former Governors George White, James M. Cox and Myers Y. Cooper, U. S. Senators Robert A. Taft and Vic Donahey, State Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Lambach and State Republican Chairman Ed. D. Schorr.

Emerson S. Weller, chairman of the Richland county Emergency committee, said today that the organization, a unit of the state committee was carrying on an intensive house to house campaign which included the distribution of literature aimed at defeat of the proposals in Richland county.

Speaking from Cleveland over a state-wide radio hookup, Davey termed the plan "a golden dream of a new Utopia" which "would end in the complete bankruptcy of the state, and the majority of its citizens."

Davey's broadcast was paid for by the Ohio Emergency committee, set up by a group of business and professional organizations.

"Ohio would be so impoverished," he declared, "that our middle-aged folks would be turned into itinerant wanderers, seeking a haven in other states where jobs were obtainable, and where crushing taxes would not exist."

"Our young folks would be driven out of Ohio in desperation if we do not defeat the Bigelow amendments overwhelmingly, so that they will not come back to plague us again, then we face the (Continued on Page 14, Col. 5)

BELLVILLE'S IN UNHAPPY MOOD

Magician Collects Money for Free Halloween Show for Kids, Then Disappears.

Bellville was the victim last night of what probably was the county's prize Halloween trick. A plan that was to have saved the village from the customary pranks backfired, and today there were a lot of disappointed kiddies and some angry merchants in the southern Richland county town.

It was all because an alleged magician who was to have given a free show for the kiddies in the school auditorium was so good that he disappeared right out from under eyes of the whole village.

But worse yet, he took away about $15 of the merchants' contributions for the show and there wasn't any show. And that's why the merchants were pretty mad about it and the boys and girls were disappointed.

HEADS RESTAURANT
COLUMBUS—(AP)—Fred A. Simonsen, Detroit, Mich., today assumed the presidency of the Mills restaurants in Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati, succeeding the late James O. Mills, founder of the restaurant chain.

Win Halloween Parade Prizes

These fancy costumes won $5 prizes each for Miss Margaret Riddle, 110 West Second street, and Harold Gravens, 144 Poplar street, in the "finest costume" contest last night.

Frances Shreffler, 11, (left) of near Shelby, impersonated Tin Woodsman of "The Wizard of Oz" and won $5 for the most originally costumed girl. A younger sister, Mary, is with her.

Five dollar prizes for the funniest man and woman in the parade were won by Miss Ruth Gabor, North Adams street, and John Grabler, 120 Sherman avenue.

"Peter" McLaughlin, 3, son of Mrs. Dora McLaughlin, 29 Prospect street, shared his prize of $5 for the most originally costumed boy with Sue Ann Schwab, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Schwab, also of 29 Prospect street.

40,000 In City? Why a Million Kids Saw Halloween Parade!

Disputing the population figures of the Chamber of Commerce may be less majestic, but where did they get that 40,000? Why, there were a million kids downtown last night for the Halloween celebration.

They crowded the sidewalks, spilled over the curbstones and flowed like the waters of a river down the center of the streets. Little kids, big kids; timid ones and yowling ones; kids with false faces and fantastic costumes; and then just plain kids. It was their night to howl and did they have themselves a time of it!

Thousands of persons thronged the downtown section last night for the annual Halloween parade and while there were many adults, they were noticeably outnumbered by the youngsters. In fact, adults almost did a fade out in the annual parade. There weren't more than 50 of them, while there were several hundred children.

FINLAND CALLS RED DEMANDS UNACCEPTABLE

Negotiators Proceed Toward

Russian Requests.

Border Revision and Territory
Transfer in Program Bared
by Molotov's Speech.

HELSINKI—Russian demands yesterday by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov in a speech before the Soviet supreme council, were described in all quarters here today as "unacceptable."

The government permitted its negotiators to proceed to Moscow despite grave apprehension throughout Finland over Molotov's announcement of the Soviet demands.

The populace was calm and no new military measures were taken but it was emphasized in all quarters that, if necessary, Finland would defend her independence and neutrality by all means.

The newspaper Hufvudstadsbladet said that "Russian demands for a naval base opposite Baltiska show that the Soviet terms are completely unacceptable."

The foreign office, meanwhile, took exception to an assertion by Molotov that Finland was being influenced by another power.

"The Finnish government was informed of the contents of Molotov's speech between one and two o'clock this morning," a foreign office communique said.

Negotiations Can Continue.
"Our first reaction was that the Finnish delegation, en route to Moscow, should return for new instructions based on the new situation but after the government met in full strength and discussed the situation it came to the conclusion that no such stage had been reached which made it necessary. In the opinion of the Finnish government negotiations with the Soviets can be continued."

"There was nothing surprising in the proposals made in Molotov's speech. All those proposals were known to the Finnish government and the reply to be submitted to Moscow tomorrow morning is based on those proposals."

"Surprise has been expressed also over the statements made by Molotov that some danger threatened in a preliminary study."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) today demanded recall of the U. S. ambassador to Russia, charging that Soviet Premier V. M. Molotov's opposition to United States repeal of the arms embargo "was a flagrant violation of international law."

WASHINGTON—Stephen T. Early, a presidential secretary, questioned today whether it was "purely coincidental" that Premier Molotov of Russia has criticized President Roosevelt at the time when an important vote was scheduled here in the house on neutrality legislation.

British Vessel Sends Out SOS From Atlantic

Destroyers, Coast Guard Cutters Rush
To Point 400 Miles From Boston As Freighter, Silent Now, Wires She Was Attacked By Submarine

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The coast guard announced today the cutter Bibb reached the reported position of the British freighter Coulmore this morning and found no sign of a ship or survivors.

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON—Two coast guard cutters and navy destroyers and airplanes battled gale-swept seas and a heavy wind today in search of the British freighter Coulmore, or her survivors, in response to a fleeting wireless report that she had been attacked by a submarine last night about 400 miles southeast of Boston.

A serious storm passed over the area yesterday and a 40-mile wind continued to whistle today, rendering perilous the position of any lifeboat occupants. The storm also would have made the surface operation of a submarine difficult.

The reported submarine attack apparently occurred within the "neutrality zone" set up by the Pan American conference.

Not a single word was received from the freighter after her initial calls for assistance.

When the Coulmore called at Boston with a cargo of Russian coal on Sept. 9, she carried a crew of 34 and the wife of the captain, Mrs. Ernest Davies. At that time, Mrs. Davies said she intended to remain aboard for the return passage.

The navy did not elaborate on the part it was playing, beyond stating it was co-operating with the coast guard in "saving life at sea."

The cutter Bibb radioed that she expected to reach the last position given by the Coulmore late this morning and the cutter Campbell said she would reach the scene by about 1:30 p. m.

First Reports Confuse.
Shore stations, for a time after the first distress call, were puzzled as to whether the Coulmore

At 12:28 a. m., the Camperdown station reported receiving the message, and six minutes later the coast guard station at Jacksonville, Fla., which had picked up part of the message, ordered all stations silenced, in order to be in better position to hear.

At 1:38 a. m., the distress signals were heard more clearly. There was nothing in these messages, shore radio sources said, to indicate the nationality of the

Britain Starts Food Rationing

LONDON—(AP)—The rationing that Adolf Hitler started even before the outbreak of war came at last to England in modified form today.

Minister of Health W. S. Morrison told the house of commons that before the middle of December, the government plans to restrict consumption of bacon and butter, probably to four ounces of each commodity per week per person.

"In view of the present volume of home-produced and imported foods," Morrison said, "the government at present feels that rationing need be confined only to bacon and butter. It is hoped that supplies of both will later improve."

had been attacked by an undersea craft or had merely "sighted" one, but later a Canadian station at Camperdown, N. S., informed Tropical radio at Hingham, Mass., that it understood the vessel's radio operator to say his ship had been attacked.

Tropical radio said the first word of the incident apparently was picked up by the Standard Oil tanker, Frederic P. Kellogg, at about 10:50 p. m. (EST) last night but that the signals apparently were not plain.

RAIDER IN ATLANTIC?
LONDON—(AP)—First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the house of commons today that one of Germany's pocket battleships had been reported operating in the North Atlantic and another in the South Atlantic.

PARIS: 1,000 Nazis Routed In Raid On Village, French Say

(By Associated Press)
PARIS—Military sources reported today that French troops had fought off a German force of 1,000 men attempting to encircle a French frontier village on the northern flank of the western front.

The Germans were said to have attacked yesterday in an area extending from west of Saarbrücken to the Rhine river valley, east of Saarbrücken, but the identity of the threatened village was not disclosed, nor were casualties mentioned.

The French said they took six prisoners and were questioning them today in an effort to learn the significance of growing German infantry and artillery pressure.

The prisoners were reported taken west of Forbach in the Warndt forest, where the French held small strategic posts on German soil so as to dominate Saarbrücken, industrial capital of the Saarland, with their heavy guns. The Germans have been in position for a big offensive two weeks. Delay by the Germans had been attributed to bad weather and in-82 an invasion was carried from the hotel on a stretcher.

Clearing weather brought new western front.

Today's communique reported only desultory artillery fire and intermittent activity on the western front.

TWO STUDY GROUPS CONDUCT SESSIONS

Mrs. R. D. Evans Appoints Committees at Evening Meeting; Reviews of Books Occupy Book Club Members.

TWO of the larger study clubs in Mansfield held sessions yesterday in which reviews and social hours were featured. The organizations meeting were the Child Study club and the Tuesday Book club.

The president of the Child Study club, Mrs. R. D. Evans, Lawnview avenue, was hostess last night for the regular session, and appointed Mrs. Keith Miller membership chairman during the business session. She also named Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. Theodore Banks as permanent delegates to the dental clinic meetings. Mrs. Clarence Beddard served as associate hostess.

"You and Heredity" by Anran Scheinfeld was the title of the article which Mrs. J. B. Simons reviewed during the program. Mrs. Lewis B. McCullough and Mrs. George Gaalaas, guests of the club, presided at the refreshment table which was decorated appropriately. The next meeting of the organization will be held Nov. 28 at which time Miss Katharine Hartman is scheduled to give a talk.

Mrs. F. W. Forkner will entertain at her home on West Third street with Mrs. Miller serving as associate.

Mrs. Henry Stiles entertained 23 members of the Tuesday Book club yesterday afternoon at her home, 408 Davis road. During the program, Mrs. Roger Black reviewed Carey McWilliams' book, "Factories in the Fields." The other book review on the program was Neil James' "Petticoat Vagabond Among the Nomads," by Mrs. Harrison Lowrey. Miss Emily Brown presided at the table, when tea was served later.

Mrs. George Searle, jr., has invited the group to her home on Sturges avenue for the next meeting, Nov. 14, when Mrs. Harold A. Bruce will discuss the history of nursery rhymes.

Kirk Ridge, Concert Pianist, To Present Program Nov. 14

FOR the fourth time in the past 15 years Kirk Ridge, professor of piano at Syracuse university and concert pianist, will appear in Mansfield. He will give a concert at Senior High school auditorium on Nov. 14 under the auspices of the Mansfield Music Study club.

Ridge is well known in music circles in Mansfield, as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ridge, live in Lucas and he spends a part of each summer there.

He played in public concert here more than ten years ago, and about six years ago was soloist with the Mansfield Symphony orchestra for one concert. He also played at the

Mrs. Mattox Has Party For Former Resident

Mrs. Charles Spetka of Coshocton was guest of honor at a dessert-bridge party Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Frank Mattox, 69 Penn avenue, entertained.

The dessert course was served at one table appointed in keeping with the Halloween season, after which guests played bridge during the afternoon. Mrs. Spetka, the former Virginia Pittenger of this city, is visiting relatives here for several days.

PLAY BRIDGE.

There were seven tables of bridge in play yesterday afternoon during the meeting of the American Legion Bridge club at the Legion home Mrs. Harvey Burghard and Mrs. Donald Leuthner were winners of contract prizes, while Mrs. Fred Schnitzer and Mrs. E. C. Fuller received the auction awards Mrs. Ralph Schad was the hostess yesterday, and Mrs. Earl Satzlgaber and Mrs. Fred Roth will be hostesses at the next meeting, Nov. 14.

Plans Recital

Miss Helen Dickson.

Mansfield Soprano To Present Recital

Miss Helen Dickson, soprano, will be heard in recital Friday evening at 8:15 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. She will be assisted by Miss Mildred Hart, violinist, and The Flutettes, a quartet composed of the Misses Jeannette Werner, Ruth Louise Hockett, Lois May Ohler and Pearl Danback.

The accompanist will be Mrs. Elsie Ireland. Miss Dickson has sung over radio station WOSU in Columbus, and recently appeared on the Major Bowes program which was broadcast from New York City over the Columbia Network.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Doyle have returned to their home, 80 Atchison avenue, following a trip to New York City where they attended the World's fair and visited friends during the past week.

John McFarland, Long Beach, Calif., arrived here yesterday to visit friends and relatives in the city. He is the cousin of Earl McFarland, and is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. McFarland, 87 West Second street.

MEET THURSDAY

Circle Three of the First Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. C. C. Craig, 141 Helen avenue, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Leah Lormer and Mrs. Ida Hoffer will assist. The hostess asked that the members come prepared to sew.

ENTERTAINS GUESTS.

Members of the Old Friends club were guests of the Williams Workers yesterday for a luncheon at the Little Washington church. The group quitted during the afternoon, and the society will meet again at the church next Wednesday.

NAMES DELEGATES.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller, Miss Naomi Stutz and Mrs. Clifford Heaton were named to represent Chi Sigma sorority at the Dental Clinic meetings during a routine business session last evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Miss Vivian Miller, vice-president, conducted in the absence of the president, Miss Florence Nail. There will be another business meeting at the hotel next Tuesday evening, while on Nov. 14 a social affair will be held at the Possum Run club house. Miss Emily Cox is chairman of the November social committee, assisted by Miss Jane Cunningham, Miss Mary Cox, Miss Betty Hammel, Miss Dorothy Crawford and Mrs. Heaton.

GIVES EMPLOYEES PARTY.

C. F. Reutzbahn entertained 92 employees of the R. B. Maxwell company with a dinner party at the pavilion in North Lake park last evening. The long tables were decorated with appropriate Halloween appointments, and during the evening Halloween contests from the Usher-Phillips company of Marion included: Miss Elouise Tschannen, Mrs. Catherine Rauh, Donald Quantarce, O. J. Lusch, Dana Daniels and M. E. Burke.

Shopping Around...

With MARIANNE

NOW that black, brown and some of the other dark shades have found their way into your fall and winter wardrobe, new, light pastels are appearing on the fashion horizon. . . . The very latest color is oddly—but appropriately—enough called "China tea"—and it looks pretty much like it sounds—a very pale greenish-tan shade. . . . One of the downtown stores is featuring dresses of this color now—an attractive style of rough crepe has the bracelet sleeves which are so smart this season and gold costume jewelry trim. . . . This same decoration is used on another frock of this shade, although it is fashioned with a shirred bodice and girdled waist.

As though not to be outdone by the pastels this season, the dark winter colors are being brightened with all kinds of colorful motifs . . . gold nailheads . . . white nailheads, red, white, gold and black sequins, black, gold and other shades of gay braid . . . and stitched designs in contrast to the gown.

BLACK, the usual suave sophisticate, has just gone especially demure and feminine with pale pink marquisette and rich black lace. . . . These quaint frocks look much as though they had just stepped from the page of an old family album—I saw several while shopping yesterday. . . . One was fashioned with the new lowered waistline, shirred bodice, and a yoke of fine lace over pink marquisette with ruffles of the same around the bottom of the skirt. . . . These features are used in many of the newest tea and dance frocks in various attractive and dainty styles.

The smartest thing in hats this season is apparently not a hat after all, but a turban, and not just an ordinary turban, at that—a very special Spanish one instead. . . . The kind that gay South American lady, Carmen Miranda, has brought to popularity—that is, it must have a bow, knot, wing or some kind of flourish on top to give it dash. . . . Most of these are of corded velvet in a variety of bright colors, black or brown.

If you're shopping early for Christmas, you'll find one of those attractive new streamlined bottles of Yu perfume to be just the gift for one of your friends. . . . That is, unless you think she'd prefer a jug (a real jug with a handle!) of Crab Apple Blossom cologne—which is prettier than it might sound because the liquid gives the jug a pale pink color, and there's a sprig of pink blossoms tied at its neck.

OTHER GIFT SUGGESTIONS: Quilted card table covers of silk or a washable leather fabric can be purchased in blue, green, maroon or rose. . . . Then there are all kinds of thread boxes—some in book form and even one that's a year-round revolving calendar. . . . Any closet will take on a new air, if you use dainty silk ruffled hangers—pink ones that have little satin sachet balls attached.

TRICKY TOWELS: Both you and your guests will be pleased with the little linen towels one of the downtown stores is showing now—they come in pairs—one embroidered in light pastels which says, "Light heart, good cheer, when friends appear," while the other worked in dark shades maintains, "Sad is the heart when friends depart." . . . And if you want to keep folks from wiping lipstick on your best towels, here are some clever ones that will do the trick—they're white with appliqued designs (a girl with a basket, a sail boat and a purse) and each one contains removable squares of red linen to be used just for lipstick fingers!

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 4 and 5:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

PLAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the Delta Theta Tau completed party were Mrs. Rachel Denzler, plans for entertaining Dorothy Miss Bernice Brewer, Miss Flor McNaughton, eastern inspector, last night when they held a brief business meeting at the home of Mrs. James Ford, 127 Sturges avenue. The next meeting will be a social Nov. 6 with the Misses Betty Anderson and Catherine Forshee in charge.

GIVES EMPLOYEES PARTY.

C. F. Reutzbahn entertained 92 employees of the R. B. Maxwell company with a dinner party at the pavilion in North Lake park last evening. The long tables were decorated with appropriate Halloween appointments, and during the evening Halloween contests from the Usher-Phillips company of Marion included: Miss Elouise Tschannen, Mrs. Catherine Rauh, Donald Quantarce, O. J. Lusch, Dana Daniels and M. E. Burke.

Halloween Tops Holidays For Many Functions

In addition to the citywide celebration of Halloween sponsored by the American Legion in the downtown area last night there were many private parties, some of which have been reported to the Society department. Miss Garnet Karl and Bob Rhoads won the prizes last night when Don Ross, 37 Small avenue, entertained a group of friends.

Appropriate decorations were used throughout the house, and luncheon was served at a long table decorated with a pumpkin, orange and black streamers, and lighted tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Heston, Lucas road, were hosts to members of the Shamrock club last night when five hundred were played at four tables. Prizes were won by Lyle Smith and Mrs. Earl McFarland. Among the 16 guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darling, Mansfield, and John McFarland, Long Beach, Calif.

HAVE CONTESTS.

Thirteen members of the Ruth Circle of First Christian church, and one guest, Mrs. Karl Webber, were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Birmel, 358 Newman street. Following the devotional hour, in charge of Mrs. Frank Brannon, Mrs. Carl Laubscher conducted a business session. Contests engaged the group during the social hour with Mrs. Earl Penney, Mrs. D. B. Wolfgang, Mrs. Cleo Buchter and Mrs. Brannon receiving the prizes. Another meeting is scheduled for Nov. 28 at the home of Mrs. Brannon, 44 Sheridan avenue, with Mrs. Birmel and Mrs. J. C. Robinson as associate hostesses.

REGULAR SESSION.

Following the regular routine business meeting of the Delano auxiliary a social hour was held with Mrs. Anna Crowl in charge at the hall last night. The next meeting will be held Nov. 14.

MEET THURSDAY.

Members of Circle Four of the First Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. L. L. Shawber, 473 Marion avenue, tomorrow at 2 p. m. Mrs. James Bailey and Mrs. E. F. Malone are the associate hostesses.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

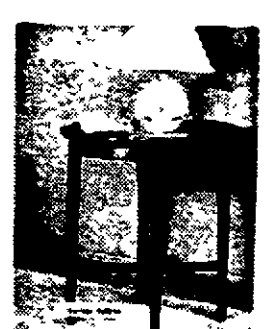

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile isn't flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach, you get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks a pain.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes three good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores, 10¢ and 25¢.

AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRY SUBJECT FOR PAPER

Miss Proctor Speaks on Currency at Sorosis Session; Evening Meeting Scheduled for Mid-November at Club.

CONTINUING the study of Australia, members of the Mansfield Sorosis heard Mrs. George Ganyard talk on "Industries of Australia" yesterday at the Women's Club when Miss Grace Courtney entertained. "The production of wool is the life-blood of the nation," she told her audience, as she listed sheep-raising as the leading industry of the continent.

Other industries include wheat and cattle raising, sugar cane, citrus fruits, and wine-making. There is also a considerable business in tropical sea fishing.

Miss Anna Proctor gave the paper entitled "Story of Uncle Sam's Money." In her talk she stated, "Federal currency is the closest tie between the citizen and the government." In explaining the work she told that the same principals which Alexander Hamilton had introduced were still being used.

Miss Mary Maxwell and Warren Bradford, two high school students, spoke on the three mill levy. Mrs. Katherine Brotherton, Toledo, was a guest.

The Sorosis will meet again Nov. 14 at 7:30 p. m. at the Women's Club with Mrs. W. H. Gifford as hostess. Papers on the North American Indian and Indian music will be given by Mrs. S. D. Hoover and Mrs. Ambrose Middleton.

Miss Hartman Has Program For Club

Miss Katharine Hartman was guest speaker yesterday afternoon when members of the Tourist club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Hughes, 55 Helen avenue, for the second Autumn season. The speaker told of her trip through England, the Scandinavian countries, Germany, Switzerland and France.

Mrs. Ernest Ihrig presented a paper on "Comparative Forms of Government" and Miss Mary Maxwell and Warren Bradford, Mansfield Senior high school students, spoke on the three-mill levy.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 14 at the Women's Club with Mrs. George Bowers, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Elmer Post and Mrs. E. G. Corwin will have the program.

Social Clubs Have Parties At Homes Of Two Members

Two of the city's social clubs were in session yesterday in celebration of Halloween. Last night Mrs. Bert Velzy, Springmill street, opened her home to members of the Needlecraft club and their families for a covered-dish dinner. Games were played throughout the evening.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Brainard Hoffer, Mrs. Albert Bowersock, Ray Crider, and Mrs. Wilbur Doffenbaugh. Mrs. Hoffer will entertain the club at her home, 137 West Dickinson avenue, Nov. 9.

When Mrs. Grace Thompson, Rae avenue, entertained members of the Penguin club yesterday at her home she was presented with a birthday gift by the club members. Mrs. Arthur Lotz gave a demonstration, and a Halloween luncheon was served after which the group went to the theater. The next meeting will be with Miss Eleanor Metcalf at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Metcalf, Lucas road.

Learn About Child's School

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Most of us know very little about our children's school, despite the fact that their futures rest so heavily upon their school successes.

We must remember that the more we know about our children's school, the more we can help them get along in their studies.

What most parents know about their children's school they pick up from the remarks dropped by their boys and girls at home, but children are human, and they, therefore, are likely to talk most about the things at school which annoy them, the things they don't like. They take for granted the good things. So do we.

For you to spend half a day in the classroom of your children in the elementary school is to get a liberal education.

We may be surprised at what we see and hear. There is not now the military atmosphere to which we may have been exposed when we were pupils in the grades, such as folding of hands, standing and marching like trained soldiers, and almost breathless silence, with the teacher spending most of her time at detecting and correcting mischief makers. Instead, she may not be heard to say a thing about conduct. The children do most of the talking and working while she, like a master engineer, quietly moves among the pupils, helping a little here, offering a suggestion there, answering more questions than she asks.

Have Great Freedom.

The children seem to move about with great freedom. They may even seem to be noisy and almost disorderly. But upon closer observation, we discern in most of them a very definite purpose, and they are not disturbed by one another.

Not all are doing the same thing. Numerous projects and activities are underway. There may be several groups of children, working together, on whose faces signs of earnestness and enjoyment are apparent.

At home you may see your own and several neighbor children continuing some of the things they had begun at school, particularly the younger children. Other things begun at home may be continued next day at school. We parents little realize how much the modern school has been doing to add to the evening home hours of happiness of our children. It will do them and us a great deal of good if we make ourselves better acquainted with these high spots of our schools.

A great force in the United States for helping us turn our attention to the school is the P. T. A. It not only helps parents know the school better, but also enables teachers to know parents better.

As we come to know more about the good things of our schools, we find increasing satisfaction in supporting them.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. When a child begins going out at night, should his parent sit up till he comes home in order to question him about his conduct while away from home?

A. No; but unless it is a hardship upon the child might enjoy the companionship of a little visit after his or her return. Yet it should be a visit and not an inquisition. Any questions should be like those you would ask of a guest. The moment you turn yourself as parent into a sneak or detective, you have begun to build a wall between yourself and your child.

Q. My baby, two years old, is always biting other children.

A. Be with him when he is with

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Can't you think of anything else to say except a cruel and silly jest like that?" I stormed. "Oh! I could—I could—"

"Please don't hit me, Lady!" he begged. "Ah didn't mean it, honest I didn't. Cross mah heart. Hope to die if Ah did."

He put down his arms and caught my clenched fists in his hands.

"Relax, darling!" he begged. "Don't spoil this night, snatched from Fate, by worry which I assure you is needless. Your bad boy gets into scrapes powerful easy, but he slides out of 'em as if they were greased. So just park your troubles in your old kit bag, and let's take the cash and let the credit go, nor hear the rumble of a distant drum." If you'd like any dust, strong sunshine and harsh winds. It stands to reason that a little coddling will help it put up a fight against devastating influences.

Friction that is necessary for thorough cleansings with soap and water and for the application of cream tends to exercise the small fibers close to the skin and to keep firm the upholstery that gives the face its youthful contour. Treatments should be at night, the cream should remain on.

Rub frown lines crosswise. When erasing turkey tracks, place the first finger on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep out to the temple, come back under the eye to the starting point.

For parenthesis lines, start a quick little nipping at the lower ends, work upward. Do rotary motions in front of the ears where tissues soften first. After treatment individual lines, give the face a brisk slapping with flattened fingers. After that a five-finger hammering exercise, being careful not to force the flesh into folds.

Every massage treatment should finish with an ice rub. The result next morning will be a new radiance, a skin surface that is satin smooth.

Good Health Prevents Wrinkles

By MME. QUI VIVE.

No woman regards old Pop Time as a funny fellow. When he gets playful and etches wrinkles in her face, she can't bear to hear the ticking of the clock; if the family forgets her birthday, so much the better. Wrinkles cause heartaches; the bravest woman cannot accept them without complaint. It may be cruel to tell her that they may be of her own making, but if she knows the bitter truth she may keep a tight rein on her emotions, take care of her health. Frowns between the eyes are self-afflicted; sometimes they come because of eyestrain. Cross-lines on the forehead are the penalty one pays for eyebrow lifting, an unnecessary facial gesture. General depletion of tissues, causing fine lines to form, may be due to bad eating habits, loss of sleep or the senseless worry habit. Anxiety in times of stress is natural, cannot be avoided, but worriers often love to worry, make an occupation of it.

The best insurance against wrinkles is health of mind and body. When vitality is present, tissues are nourished. When the mind is at peace, facial fibers are neither tense nor distorted. The happy woman who finds life joyous and zestful does not wrinkle early. The lemons do fretter gets a face that looks like an old walnut when it should still carry the smooth freshness of her young ladyhood.

Scrupulous cleanliness, gentle friction and the use of oily cosmetics will stave off tissue ditches etched by the old gent and the scythe. Those attentions should start early, even before the 30th birthday. The complexion doesn't have an easy life. Besides beauty ills that come through physical upsets and disorders, it must combat the debilitating effects of atmospheric

Salmon Tops For Epicures

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

CRABMEAT and salmon are foundations for some swell dishes, nice enough to serve the most epicurean palate.

Salmon mousse is such a dish. It is made with one one-pound can of salmon, one-third cup cold water, two tablespoons gelatin, one cup mayonnaise, one-half chopped cucumber, teaspoon onion juice, two tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, two tablespoons lemon juice, teaspoon prepared horseradish, one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash of paprika and one cup whipping cream. Drain salmon. Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes and then dissolve over hot water. Cool and add to mayonnaise. Remove skin from fish and flake. Combine flaked fish, cucumber, onion juice, olives, horseradish, lemon juice, salt, paprika and mayonnaise. Chill until mixture begins to thicken and pour into a fish mold which has been wiped with glycerine. Chill until firm and unmold on platter.

Crabmeat Metropolitan.

Crabmeat Metropolitan is made with a can of crabmeat, three hard-boiled eggs, two alligator pears, four tablespoons mayonnaise, one head of lettuce. Cut crabmeat into small pieces and chop one egg and cut alligator pears in halves. Scoop flesh from the pears and mix with crabmeat and chopped egg; season with French dressing. Place the mixed crabmeat into the pears' half shells and cover with mayonnaise. Slice two remaining hard-boiled eggs and use as a garnish.

Canned tongue forms the basis for a good dish. Ingredients are one No. 1/2 flat can cooked tongue, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon each minced onions and chopped capers, tablespoon vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon flour, one-half cup hot water, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and tablespoon chili sauce. Remove tongue from can, cut in thin slices, and reserve its liquor. Melt butter in sauce pan; add onions, capers, vinegar and sugar, and let simmer for five minutes. Add water and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly; add chili sauce, salt, pepper and reserved liquor. Serve very hot over thinly sliced tongue. If desired, tongue may be heated while sauce is being made. Serves three or four.

Top off your dinner with a handsome dessert and win applause from the family. Plum soufflé is made with one No. 2 1/2 can fresh

NEXT YEAR'S county fair will offer the most pretentious harness racing program in history if present plans develop. . . . It was learned today that an attempt is being made to feature a Short Ship racing meeting in connection with the annual exposition next summer, and fair officials have greeted the suggestion with more than an ordinary amount of interest, we understand. . . . Roy Dickson and Roy Colwell, prominently identified with the harness sports in this city for many years, are back of the movement to bring the Short Ship horses to the Fairground. . . . The usual purse for a Short Ship meeting is $7,000, and this amount would attract the class of the trotters and pacers. . . . The purse for last year summer's fair meeting was little more than a couple of thousand dollars. . . . There is probably more fiction than truth in the report that Johnny Hallabrin will pull out of Ohio State in favor of Cornell, as some of the boys around town are saying. . . . Johnny would lose one full year of competition by pulling such a stunt. . . . Due to increased crowds for night baseball games, the Tiffin officials are planning to erect seats on top of their grandstand for next season. . . . In the Indiana backfield is a youngster by the name of Harold Hursh, who can throw a football just about as far as George Washington could toss a silver dollar. . . . And just as accurately, too, Mr. Schmidt.

In defeating Newcastle, Pa., 46 to 0, Massillon chalked up its seventh straight victory of the season, running its cumulative point total to 355 against a mere 13 for the opposition. That's just about par for any course.

Harmon a Grange? No, Says Illinois.

CLAIMS that sensational Tom Harmon of Michigan is the equal of "Red" Grange has the football faithful at the University of Illinois in a seething rage. . . . To Illinois followers, Grange is the all-time tops. . . . Illinois and Michigan tangled Saturday and the word is out that Harmon is set to give the Illini a single-handed beating such as the Wolverines received at the hands of Grange 15 years ago. . . . That was the fall day in 1924 when Grange returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, then ran 70, 57 and 43 yards for three more scores, all within the first 10 minutes of the game. . . . Ohio State is quoted as 2-1 over Indiana, the same figure attached to it for the Cornell game. . . . Can't possibly see why Max Schmeling or Tony Galento ever had to "fix" a fight to beat Harry Thomas, who told the Illinois commish that that's what happened. . . . Coach Johnny Niemce of Bellaire, confined to a hospital, gave his gridders a pep talk via telephone at the half of their game with Martins Ferry. . . . and it must have worked, Bellaire winning, 18 to 13, after trailing 13-0 at the half.

265 Football Games Won By Kicks In 1938.

LAST year approximately 265 football games were decided by kicks from the field. Maybe that's where Notre Dame got the idea. . . . Johnny Vander Meer, Claybourne Bryant and Russ Bauers were the class of the freshmen major league pitchers last year. . . . This year Vander Meer won only five games for the pennant-winning Reds. Bryant did not hurl a complete game for the Cubs and Bauers won two games and lost four for Pittsburgh. . . . "Among the points of interest Kenmore failed to visit in Mansfield Saturday was the Tygers' end zone," the office wag told. . . . And as the coach called a halt to practice says, "that's enough for today, boys," we're signing off.

FORMER BUCKEYE STAR WINS COACHING POST

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 27.—Harold B. "Chickie" Cunningham, captain of the Ohio State football squad in 1925 and all-conference basketball center, was appointed basketball coach yesterday at Washington & Lee university. He succeeds Harry K. Young, who resigned to become athletic secretary at the university. Cunningham has been coaching at a Chattanooga, Tenn., preparatory school in recent seasons.

Midwest Boasts Only Two U.S. Title Contenders

Rams Work on Defense to Halt Hamilton, State Scoring Leader

HOWARD HAMILTON . . . state scoring leader.

Madison Faces Big Job in Putting Stop to Jaunts of Bellville Star Friday Night.

MADISON produced the state individual scoring champion last year when Gene Harmon rolled up something like 150 points in his numerous touchdown dashes. Harmon's successor this year may be Howard Hamilton, brilliant Bellville halfback.

Hamilton leads the undefeated Bluejays into battle against the Rams under the Madison lamps Friday night, and Coach Al Fendrick's men are going to do everything in their power to stop the Bellville back.

This will be difficult, it is agreed, as Hamilton has run wild against opponents rated just as strong as Madison.

Of course, Al Fendrick is a coach well-versed in defensive play, and he may be able to set up a defense to halt the Hamilton boy, but Bellville boosters believe not.

Hamilton has accounted for a total of 118 points in seven games, and this puts him 15 points ahead of Bob Frye of Crestline in the state scoring list. Here's a summary of Hamilton's scoring:

In the opening game against Centerburg, Hamilton tallied three touchdowns as Bellville won, 33 to 0. He was held to seven points the following week when the Bluejays trimmed Granville, 25 to 14.

Hamilton made up for his inability to score against Granville in the Fredericktown game in which he accumulated 21 points. He added 15 against Loudonville, and returned with seven against Mt. Gilead.

The Bellville sensation has tallied 50 points in his last two games against Sunbury and Ashley.

Instead of showing signs of weakening at this stage of the season, Hamilton is increasing his scoring pace.

Hamilton's appearance is expected to attract the largest crowd of the season to Madison field Friday night.

SOPHS INVADE ASHLAND TO PLAY COLLEGE CLUB

Coach Harry Mehock's Mansfield high sophomores will invade Ashland Thursday to face the Ashland college freshmen in a practice game. The contest is scheduled to get under way at 4 p. m. It will mark the first time the college plobes have played a regulation game. There will be no admission charge.

The sophomores will return to action Saturday when they tackle the undefeated Ashland Jayvees in a prelim to the Ashland-Mansfield high contest at Stadium field at 12:30 p. m.

STATE GRID ATTENDANCE MAY HIT NEW LOW MARK

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Unless ticket sales for the Indiana and Illinois games show an unexpected spurt, Ohio State home football attendance this fall will dip to a five-year low.

Three home games to date have drawn a disappointing 163,370 customers. The Indiana contest this Saturday and Illinois on Nov. 18, winding up the season in Ohio Stadium, will not aggregate more than 80,000 to 85,000 additional, according to estimates today of the ticket office. This would give a home crowd mark of around 245,000 for the season compared with 253,950 in 1935, the previous low since 1934.

Bad Season for Vincent Petrellas

DOVER — (INS) — Two "Vincent Petrellas" were listed on Dover high school's football squad at the beginning of the season but today both were on the sidelines.

Early in the campaign, Vincent B. Petrella broke his left arm in a practice session. Yesterday Vincent R. Petrella turned up with a broken right arm, suffered in a game with Uhrichsville high last Friday. The boys are cousins.

Supplies Play In McKeesport

Face Club Which Held Akron To Two Touchdowns.

Instead of playing a hand-picked opponent for a "breather," the Automotive Supplies settled down to work this week to prepare for another tough assignment on the semi-professional gridiron.

The 25 to 0 defeat that wrecked their unmarred record last Sunday has not been forgotten, but the Supplies are determined to make amends next Sunday.

Coach Earl McMullen takes his Supplies on a 175-mile trip to meet the McKeesport, Pa., Olympics this week-end.

That the Supplies face anything but a set-up is presented in a score comparison. The McKeesport club lost to the South Akron Awnings, 13 to 0. It held the Awnings to 12 points less than the Supplies permitted last Sunday.

The Supplies are not heavy as semi-pro teams go, and it will be necessary for them to give the weight edge to the foe again Sunday. McMullen has learned that the McKeesport club is heavier than the Awnings, who boasted a huge poundage advantage this week.

CANZONERI UNDERDOG IN LIGHTWEIGHT FIGHT

NEW YORK — (INS) — There seems to be a slight difference of opinion between Tony Canzoneri, former world's lightweight champion, and Al Davis, undefeated Brooklyn lightweight, who meet over the 10 round route in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The 21-year-old Davis with the lethal hook declares he will knock out the veteran who was winning fights when Davis was in the kindergarten. The aged Canadian predicts he will flatten his young opponent well within the limit. The bookies have made Davis a 9 to 5 favorite.

Snyder Pushes Tygers

Mansfield Coach Corrects Faults of Kenmore Game In Drills This Week.

"WE'RE DRILLING for Ashland, not Canton McKinley," Coach Paul Snyder answered when asked by a spectator at yesterday's practice how things were "coming along for the Canton game."

"Football fans can't seem to think that we coaches have to consider every game tough until it is won," he added later.

Ashland's record this year does not indicate extraordinary power, but Snyder's past experiences with Coach John Longley's teams have convinced him that it is folly to accept a victory until it is actually recorded in the books.

"I've lost these so-called 'easy' games before," Snyder declared, "and I'm not taking any chances."

The Tygers are working just as hard on the practice field for Saturday's game with Ashland at Stadium field as they did for the Massillon, New Philadelphia and Sandusky tilts.

The Tygers had a rest during the week of their off-day. That's the last rest period for the bengal squad this year until the season's over, according to Snyder.

"We're far from being a perfect team," Snyder said. "We were guilty of many mistakes in the Akron Kenmore game."

"That's why we are working hard again this week, and another thing, we're not so sure that we can win this ball game by just tossing our helmets out on the field."

Snyder scouted Ashland in its 6 to 6 tie game with Mt. Vernon Monday night. He was particularly impressed with the passing attack unleashed by the A's.

The Tygers were drilled hard on pass defense last week in preparation for the Kenmore game, and this is the department of play which Snyder is checking over again this week.

All of the Tygers came out of the Kenmore game in good

All-American?

GEORGE CAFEGO, Tennessee's "bad news" for all opponents, is another dependable workhorse. Cafego's brilliant running and passing led the Vols to an undefeated season in '38 and he's zooming right along at the same job this fall, shining against Alabama on a 55-yard dash.

Run In Delaware For State Title

DELAWARE — (UP) — Teams from 12 high schools will compete at Ohio Wesleyan university Saturday morning in the annual Ohio high school cross country meet.

Springfield public high school will defend its 1938 championship against Akron North, Akron Garfield, Akron South, Cleveland Lincoln, Cleveland East, Lakewood, Mansfield, Toledo Libbey, Newark, Columbus North and Cincinnati Withrow.

shape except Gene Miller, lanky wingman. Miller suffered a cracked nose as well as a pair of blackened orbs in the Kenmore tussle.

It is not likely that the tall end will start Saturday against Ashland, but he will be available if needed, Snyder said.

All seats for the Ashland game will be reserved, it was announced at the high school today. Tickets may be purchased at the Tawse, Brown and Central Drug stores and Smokehouse.

BOWLING SCORES

Bill Donnellan Hits 635 to Pace Individual Scoring at Meder Alleys.

Starting off with a 244 and following with a 222, Bill Donnellan of the Maintenance club, Mansfield Tire league, whipped up a 635 total to hold the individual scoring spotlight at the Meder alleys last night.

Donnellan, who mused up a high 600 by finishing with a 169, led his team to three wins over the Truckers. Bill Fenn closed with a 247 as he collected 624 pins and led Main Office No. 1 to a pair of wins over Curing Room No. 2. Joe Leathers of Tire Room No. 1, which is in second place, missed the 600 figure by only one point. His team took two tilts from the Air Bags.

The Mansfield Service store remained in first place by grabbing three victories from the Inspectors.

The scoring pace in the Transportation league was set by Lee Smaltz of the Williams Transfers, who clouted out an even 600 with the aid of a 232 game.

Grand Jury Returns 37 Indictments, 23 of Them Secret

CITE DRIVER OF ONE OF 3 CARS IN DEATH CRASH

Return Manslaughter Charge Against New Yorker; Two Cases Ignored.

Thirty-seven indictments, including 23 that were held secret, were returned shortly after noon today by the county grand jury.

The jury heard 39 cases and refused to indict in two of them. Seventy witnesses were examined.

Court attaches said the defendants probably will be arraigned Saturday morning before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court. Most of those named in open indictments are already in the county jail.

An indictment for second degree manslaughter was returned against Bernabe Richardson, New York City, driver of one of the three cars involved in a traffic accident Sept. 30 in East Mansfield in which Mrs. Ethel Goon, Mansfield, was killed.

Still in Jail.

Richardson, a Cuban, was accused of pulling into the path of another car without signalling, causing the car behind him to swerve into the path of a third automobile. He has been in the county jail since the accident.

The other open indictments were against:

Oscar Hughes, possessing narcotic drugs; C. L. Patin, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, Marie Keller, and Albert Walker, cutting with intent to wound; R. H. Scott, defrauding an inn keeper; Martin Xander, William Dyingser and Arthur Dyingser, breaking and entering; Gilbert McElroy, assault with intent to rob; Glenn Gatchell, Truman Thomas, William Karchner, and Robert Ryan, non-support.

Most of the 23 secret indictments involve non-support and abandonment charges, the prosecutor said, and they will be made public as soon as the defendants are taken into custody.

The jury recommended that county commissioners obtain immediate estimates on construction of enlarged women's quarters at the county jail and fireproofing of the entire jail. Jurors inspected the jail following the session.

Floyd W. Bellnap, 2 Park drive, was foreman of the jury which was in session two and a half days.

3 Jump to Safety As Train Crashes Into Stalled Auto

Three persons, including a five-year-old girl escaped injury and possibly death by a narrow margin last night when the automobile in which they were riding stalled on the Bowman street crossing of the B. & O. railroad and was struck by a freight train.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schmidt, 315 Bowman street, and their daughter, who leaped as the locomotive crashed into the machine.

Schmidt told police that he was driving south on Bowman street and that his car stalled on the tracks just as the train came into view.

He said that he had become confused when he drove down the street where the railroad is making crossing repairs.

20 Scouts Given Prizes at Annual Halloween Party

Following a mystery hike which took them through nearly all sections of the city, 200 Boy Scouts of the Mansfield district gathered at South park last night for an annual Halloween party.

Prizes were awarded four scouts for original costumes, and to 16 others in a treasure hunt. Costume prizes went to William Summers, troop 4, Leonard Amel, troop 17 and Terry Shelton, troop 12 of Mansfield and Jerry Miller of Belleville.

Prizes in the treasure hunt were won by George Kyler, Dean Brown, Robert Stevenson, Fred Johnson, Robert Schneider, Robert Miller, Robert White, Harry Baez, Jack Davis, Donald Barker, the Belmonts, and Donald Heiser, 104 North Main street, and Jack Nelson of Lexington and William Clark of Belleville.

Refreshments were served followed by group singing around a camp fire. Glenn Pace was chairman of the party committee.

SPONSORS PARTY

The Shenandoah grange will sponsor a Halloween party at 8 p. m. Friday in the township hall in the village. The entertainment will be open to the public.

were loose as raiders on Allied shipping.

"But I think one may be sure that one of the Deutschland type (10,000-ton battleship) has been abroad on the ocean," he declared.

Churchill cited as evidence reports from sailors who were aboard a British freighter, Stonegate when she was sunk by the Deutschland in early October with the loss of 100 lives.

Naval authorities last week said both the Deutschland and her sister ship, the Admiral Scheer, were known to have been at sea a month.

Another Ship Sunk, Britain Reveals.

LONDON.—(U.P.)—The sinking of the 5,317-ton British steamer Bronte, was disclosed today with the arrival in England of her crew aboard a rescue vessel.

The crew of 40 and one passenger were rescued by a ship which attempted to tow the crippled Bronte to port after it had been attacked by a submarine.

The attempt at towing failed, the crew reported, and the Bronte sank.

Flint Continues to Hug Norwegian Coast.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—(U.P.)—The captured American freighter City of Flint, in charge of a German prize crew, is steaming slowly southward close to the Norwegian coast and was believed to have been off Bodoe, a little more than 800 miles from the entrance to the Baltic, last night, according to telephonic advices from trustworthy Norwegian sources today.

Rumors were discounted that the ship had been stopped by British warships off the Lofoten islands, near the coast at Bodoe. The Norwegian advices reported the American crew of the City of Flint safe and the ship itself in good condition.

Indications were that the Germans were keeping the ship close to the three-mile limit of Norwegian territorial waters, proceeding with great care because of the numerous islands and shoals along the route.

WOMAN HUNTED

Mansfielder Asks Police to Find Wife Who Disappeared.

Police in a radio broadcast this morning asked authorities throughout Ohio to search for a Mansfield woman who disappeared from her home yesterday.

Harry H. Thierlein, 62 Bentley street, told police last night that his wife, Catherine, 43, left home yesterday noon to deliver some garments for which she is the agent and had not been seen since.

Thierlein said he checked places where she was going and learned she had not arrived. She carried a brown leather satchel.

Believing that she may be suffering from amnesia, he asked police to extend their search throughout the state. He told officers she had relatives in St. Louis and asked them to have police there look for her.

SENIOR HIGH G. A. A. TO INITIATE 36 GIRLS AT DINNER TOMORROW

Thirty-six Senior high school girls will be initiated into the Girls Athletic association at a covered dish dinner at North Lake park pavilion Thursday.

The new members were accepted into membership after earning the required number of points in recent volleyball and deck tennis intramurals. Eight were taken in yesterday following the deck tennis tournament and 28 others last month following the volleyball tournament.

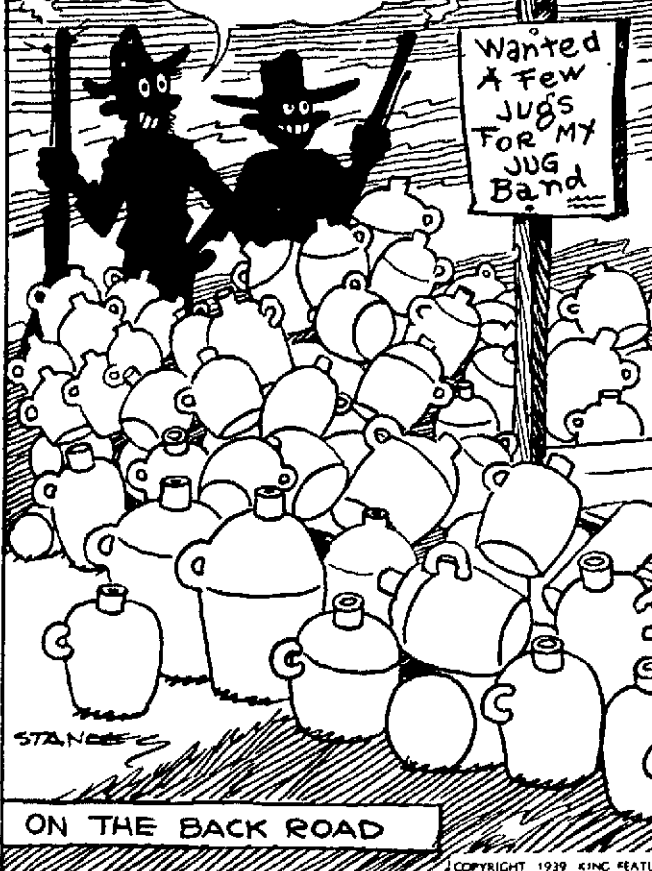

New members accepted yesterday are Helen Polus, Delores Lorenz, Jeanne Worley, Catherine Woods, Marjorie Homrick, Bobette Greene, Mary Rhodes and Jeanne George.

The new group is divided into six teams with each team presenting a stunt for entertainment. The teams are captained by Julia Fushback, Helen Sampson, Marjorie Torski, Marjorie Wampler, Ann Jeanette Klinger and Ruth Sawyer. Initiations will be in charge of a committee headed by Mary Alice Mead and the dinner is being arranged by a committee of which Janet Kelley is chairman.

The names of 13 other girls who won their G. A. A. pins, numerals and emblems as the result of points earned in the intramural which closed Monday were announced today by Miss Margaret Clap-addle, girls' physical education instructor.

yesterday that the president had taken in Soviet-Finnish negotiations "in contradiction" of the United States' neutrality policy.

Early said he did not know whether the president had yet read Molotov's remarks.

He asserted that he himself had read them in the press, however, adding: "I wonder whether the remarks of yesterday were purely coincidental. The Russian negotiations with Finland had been carried on in utmost secrecy over a period of about three weeks, I believe."

"The decision to speak yesterday on the giving the first revelations on the points being discussed between the representatives of Finland and Russia, whether by coincidence or not, seems to me to be worth considering as a question of timing."

House Democratic leaders, pleased with their initial show of strength, expressed confidence today that they had the votes to block arms embargo proposals and to make the administration neutrality program the law of the land by Saturday.

Disputing these claims, Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.), opposition leader, said there was not only a good chance that the house would insist on an outright or modified ban on arms shipments to belligerents, but that embargo advocates could "darn near" get the kind of bill they wanted.

The administration wants the embargo repealed, and the senate has approved such a proposal. The house last summer, however, passed a neutrality bill containing a modified embargo.

Fourteen Ohio congressmen voted against ending debate on procedure to be adopted in the house on the neutrality bill and three opposed it. Among those against ending debate was Congressman William A. Ashbrook of the 17th (Richland county) district. He was the only Ohio Democrat to oppose ending the debate.

Blecker Hits 'Alibis; 'I'll Be Mayor' -- Locke

Says Opponent Spending Most of His Time 'Apologizing.'

Atty. George H. Blecker, non-partisan candidate for municipal judge made his first campaign speech last night, lashing out at his opponent Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch for "alibis" about suspended sentences he has handed during his term as judge.

Speaking at a Fourth Ward Democratic rally at Bowman school before 150 persons, Blecker said that he had attempted to conduct a "clean campaign without any mud slinging."

"I'm amused at my opponent," Blecker said. "He has spent most of his time apologizing to the public. He claims that I have been singing a song of suspended sentences."

"There must be something wrong. Maybe his conscience is bothering him for I haven't said an unkind word against him. You want to be careful when you hear a fellow alibing."

"It's been a constant cry in this campaign—an alibi for suspended sentences. Maybe there is something there that I should look into," he concluded.

Hunter Sticks to 'Claim.'

Scorning the Republican challenge to "show the reduction in the city's debt" since he has been in office, Mayor Claude M. Hunter replied to Atty. S. H. Cramer's "accusations" that Hunter claimed credit for debt reductions that were made by the city during the past 10 years.

"I never have assumed all the credit," the mayor said, "but I can and do claim I had something to do with the city's finances since 1932."

"I have also assumed a portion of the credit in reducing the city tax rate," Hunter added, "and I believe rightly so because I spent eight years in city council before assuming the office of the city's chief executive."

Replying to his Republican opponent, William J. Locke, Hunter said: "No man can honestly pledge an efficient, economical government unless he has had some experience in municipal affairs."

"My opponent has the slogan 'unbossed.' No man is big enough to be mayor of Mansfield and be mayor alone."

"I have sought counsel outside the administration many times. Can you call those men to whom I went for advice my political bosses?—You can call them what you wish but I'll continue in my sincere attempt to give Mansfield efficient and economical government and I'll continue to call on the citizens of Mansfield to help me."

Atty. George Biddle hurled a challenge at Locke "to show some outstanding ability that would qualify him for the mayor's job."

"We don't oppose Mr. Locke because he has only lived in Mansfield 10 years but if we have to go outside of Mansfield to get a mayor for two years we should either get an outstanding man or a flop," Biddle asserted.

"I have never heard of this man or read his record," Biddle said, asking Locke to "lay your record before us."

The Republicans seem to have a non-resident complex," he added. "It seems just as easy for them to get a candidate for mayor from Pennsylvania as it was for them to get a police chief from Toledo."

Lauding the extension of civil service by Mayor Hunter, Biddle cited figures from civil service records showing that 132 employees are now under civil service as compared with 40 comprising little more than the police and fire departments two years ago.

John Carroll, former president of the Young Democratic club who introduced the meeting introduced eight other party candidates in-

NO REASON FOR WAR FEARS IN U.S., TAFT SAYS

Foreign Situation Secondary, Task Now's to Keep Nation From Bankruptcy, He Says.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS.—U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft said at a press conference here today that "there is no longer any reason to fear that we will get into war."

"There was nothing like the present determination to stay out in the last war," he said.

"I intend to make a number of speeches emphasizing that in the present war, the foreign situation is really secondary to the domestic so far as the happiness of the people of this country is concerned."

He suggested that attention be turned to "stopping the downward path to bankruptcy." He added that although some conservative Democrats have stood with President Roosevelt on foreign policy, they differ with him on domestic policy.

"Both the president and his opponents have over-emphasized the importance of the neutrality bill," the senator said. "I think the bill will help us keep out of war but I don't think we'll get in the war anyway, whether it passes or not."

He predicted that the neutrality bill as passed by the senate would be approved by the house "by a 30 to 40 vote majority."

Sen. Taft said the fight to recover for Ohio the $1,300,000 withheld from the state pension fund by the federal social security board because of differences with the Davey administration in 1938 would be carried on as long as the special session of congress lasts.

He was to confer with Governor John Bricker and State Republican Chairman Ed Schorr later today.

G. O. P. Candidate Asserts He'll Seek Counsel But Make Own Decisions.

"If I am elected mayor, I will be the mayor and the affairs of the office will be conducted at the city building and not elsewhere in the city," William J. Locke, Republican mayoralty candidate, said last night in a talk at a Fourth ward rally at Johns park.

"When I stated recently that I would ask the counsel of those I considered most able to give it, campaign speakers on the other side twisted that into meaning that the office would be handled by 'certain others' in the party," he asserted.

"It is only good judgment to seek the counsel of others on important matters and I intend to confer with members of both parties. No man can run public office without keeping in touch with the public needs and desires. But when it comes to the final decisions, I will make them."

Locke praised the city parks associations for their work and pledged his cooperation in helping to extend the park program.

"With modern industrial methods giving us more leisure time, we need an adequate recreation set-up," he said.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch reviewed his record in office for the past four years and asserted that "I think my work as your municipal judge entitles me to another term."

The other candidates for city offices were introduced by Atty. H. H. Schettler, chairman of the meeting.

Following the Johns park meeting the candidates were introduced and spoke briefly at a rally for colored voters at Mt. Calvary Baptist church. The attendance at each of the meetings was approximately 100.

Republicans will carry their campaign into the Fifth ward, the city's traditional Democratic stronghold, tonight with a rally at 7:30 p. m. in the Newman school. Locke and the other candidates will speak.

MANSFIELD GIRL SCOUT TROOPS OBSERVE BIRTHDAY OF FOUNDER

Mansfield Girl Scouts will observe the birthday anniversary of their organization's founder, Juliette Low, during Girl Scout week this week with Halloween parties, wieners roasts and hikes.

Miss Eleanor Bond, Mansfield executive secretary, said the city groups will sponsor an observance of their own next March when the anniversary of Mansfield scouting activity will be celebrated.

In the city there are 13 registered troops with a membership of 250 and 30 volunteer leaders.

At a meeting last night at the Chamber of Commerce, two officers were elected to fill vacancies. Mrs. R. M. Gage was elected vice president and Mrs. Richard Fensch was named secretary-treasurer. Other officers are Mrs. F. C. Davis, president; and Mrs. Tom Ford, representative to the Girl Scout Council, Inc.

Announcement was made that a Group Leadership course for new leaders will start Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. Among the new leaders are Miss Caroline Wolf, Mrs. William Hausman, Mrs. Robert Bell, Mrs. M. W. Stretch, Miss Catherine Pfeifer, Mrs. Charles Ray, Miss Emily Burns and Miss Margaret Strickler.

Events scheduled for this week are: wieners roast at Middle park this afternoon for the Friendly House troop; Halloween party for Troop 5 Thursday evening; birthday party for Brownie Troop 22 Friday afternoon, and breakfast hike to Middle park Saturday morning for Troop 5. Brownie Troop 21 will continue work on a scrap book which members are making for a little girl in Texas, confined in an iron lung.

THROW ACID IN WOMAN'S FACE

Two Men Hit Ashtabula Resident With Rock In Attack.

ASHTABULA, O.—(U.S.)—Police continued their investigation today of an attack on Mrs. Guy DeRosa, 45, of Ashtabula, who suffered severe facial and body burns when two unidentified men struck her with a rock and threw a half pint of sulphuric acid in her face.

As Mrs. DeRosa returned from a grocery store a car stopped at the curb and the men jumped out. One of them hit her on the head with a rock he was carrying and the other threw the acid. Mrs. DeRosa could give police no reason for the attack.

DEMANDS LEAVE FINNS DEFIANT

Negotiators Proceed Toward Moscow Despite Stunning Russian Requests.

ens the Soviet Union from Finnish territory. Finland would never allow any third power to use her territory in a manner inimical to the Soviet Union.

- Molotov's demand included:
1. "A shift in the Soviet-Finnish border on the isthmus of Karelia several dozen kilometers farther to the north of Leningrad."
 2. Transfer to Finland of part of Soviet Karelia "double the size of the territory which Finland is to transfer to the Soviet Union."
 3. Finland to lease Russia a "small section of her territory" near the entrance to the gulf of Finland.
 4. The "exchange" of several islands in the gulf.
 5. Russia to drop objections to fortification of the Aaland Islands between Finland and Sweden.
 6. Finland to disarm fortified positions on the isthmus of Karelia.
 7. That the Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact be "reinforced with additional mutual guarantees."

Molotov, in addressing the supreme soviet at Moscow last night, also aroused deep diplomatic interest by expressing a desire for closer Soviet relations with Japan.

He affirmed cooperation with Germany, including trade negotiations; made threats at Great Britain and France; and slapped at the United States for its "moral support of Finland."

While he displayed a certain coldness toward Turkey (which recently signed a mutual aid pact with Britain and France against fruitless negotiations with Russia), foreign circles believed Russia still was studying aims in the Balkans, since there was no direct reference to them or to Bessarabia formerly Russian-held but now part of Rumania.

Cities Border Clashes.

Turning to Japan, Molotov said that in May, June, July, August and up to the middle of September, battles "sometimes of a very sanguinary character" took place between Japanese-Manchoukuoan and Soviet-Mongolian troops.

"This absolutely unnecessary conflict," he said, "exactd rather heavy casualties on our side and casualties several times heavier on the Japanese-Manchurian side."

Finally, Japan made proposals to terminate the conflict, and we willingly met the Japanese government's wishes."

Molotov said the next step toward improvement of Russian-Japanese relations would be settlement of frontier questions.

Commenting on Molotov's speech, the communist party newspaper Pravda said today, "lying penpushers (referring to sections of the foreign press) are trying to poison our relations with Finland."

The Soviet proposals to Finland are just and noble."

It ended by declaring, "we are striving to strengthen and shall strengthen the safety of Lenin-grad, the cradle of the great socialist revolution."

Declare Reds Will Give Subs to Nazis.

BERLIN—(INS)—Russian military aid to Germany in the form of submarines and battle planes was stressed by competent Nazi quarters today as a possible reprisal against lifting of the American arms embargo as the press and German officialdom hailed Premier V. M. Molotov's speech before the supreme Soviet yesterday.

Molotov's address "met all expectations," an official spokesman declared. The reich takes great satisfaction from the fact that Russian planes and submarines may be made available in almost limitless numbers "if Germany needs them to compensate for American deliveries to Britain and France."

Popular A & P Store Manager Tells How Vendol Helped Him

Mansfield business man had suffered from pains in back, rest less sleep, gas in stomach and other troubles due to constipation.

Here is the experience of a man living right here in our home town who suffered terribly from achy, painful legs and backache, and who found gratifying relief. He tells here all about it, so if you are suffering the same way, from the same causes, what he has to say will prove valuable. Here is how it was told to the Vendol Man in the Central Drug Store a few days ago.

Mr. C. B. Taylor, residing at 122 Highland avenue, Mansfield, who is store manager of the A. & P. store on North Main street, and is known to thousands who patronize this popular store says, "My troubles were due to need of a diuretic to my kidneys and also something to relieve my constipation because this condition was giving me such backache and pains down through my legs that my suffering was awful at times and I spent many hours rubbing my legs trying to get relief, so I could go off to sleep. Sometimes the pains troubled me in my arms and shoulders too."

"I began taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets, and in a few days they were giving full, easy bowel action so I kept on taking them, and I can say that I am enjoying more relief from my aches and pains than

Shelby Turns Out For Halloween Ox Roast

—Photos by DeVito, Shelby.

With the town's enterprising and hospitable police force as hosts, Shelby celebrated Halloween yesterday with an ox roast and parade, for which some 5,000 persons turned out. PROVIDES FREE FOOD FOR 5,000

Shelby Police Department Host to Record Crowd at Annual Halloween Party.

SHELBY—A crowd estimated at 5,000 participated in the annual Shelby Community Halloween celebration sponsored last night at Central school park by Shelby police.

Free food was served to all persons present. The food included 10,000 doughnuts, 300 gallons of cider, 200 pounds of wieners, 5,000 buns and a 500-pound ox. The food was served by 50 volunteer waiters, including the Shelby merchants and Boy Scouts.

Although the serving was scheduled to start at 8 p. m. it was moved ahead by officials in charge due to the thousands of persons that began coming to the park several hours ahead of time. Besides the food served from large tables at the park, Shelby police delivered food to some 100 shut-ins, including patients at Shelby Memorial hospital.

Some 1,000 children were present for the free motion picture show and comedy act put on by Gus Culbertson, of Shelby, in an

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1939.

No matter how much help may be given in other ways, each must do his own getting up in the morning.

According to an expert, "parents and children necessarily live in different worlds"—but these worlds are apparently quite close together at mealtime.

A recent picture showed Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hoover shaking hands and laughing heartily—which might also be a good idea for Franklin and Herbe.

Legion Leadership Laudable

LAST NIGHT'S Halloween celebration, sponsored by McVey post, American Legion, and featured by a big street parade, was along the traditional lines instituted by the late Fred Hunt more than twenty years ago and carried through by him for a number of years—or until the project had become too large for individual handling.

The advantages of concentrating the interest of many hundreds of young people in such a community observance of Halloween have become very generally recognized and the idea of planning an even more elaborate entertainment program for these Halloween occasions is worth considering.

There is a place, among community activities, for such an outlet of boisterous spirits as is provided by a Halloween celebration and it would appear that either the American Legion, acting alone or in co-operation with other organizations devoted to the interests of young people, might well establish this as an annual custom which can be looked forward to year after year rather than being arranged on short notice.

Objections to Halloween practices have been based largely on acts of rowdiness and property destruction, indulged in by small groups of undisciplined children, and by premature Halloweening in residence sections of the city.

A well conducted and properly supervised community Halloween celebration, with bands, a number of attractive floats, several thousand masked marchers, with special entertainment features afterward would serve to remove many of the objectionable phases of Halloween observance by scattered groups.

The success of last night's affair indicates that the Legion is quite competent to take leadership in arranging to make this an annual event in Mansfield.

Get Acquainted With Candidates

WHATEVER may be the outcome of next Tuesday's election, insofar as selection of city officials is concerned, an important thing for candidates, political leaders and voters to keep in mind is that partisanship should play the least possible part in an election such as this and that qualifications rather than party affiliation should be the determining factor in choosing men to fill public offices.

It may be assumed, in a city of Mansfield's size, that each voter has opportunity to become personally acquainted with all candidates and is in position to estimate the ability of each to perform the duties of the office to which he aspires.

It may also be taken for granted that all candidates class among the community's good citizens and that, if elected, would endeavor to perform the duties of their respective offices to the best of their ability.

Past experience has evidenced that injection of charges and counter-charges into a municipal campaign is not only poor political technique but also tends to extend to later bitterness which is not conducive to community advancement.

Most important, as to the coming election, is that all qualified voters be urged to go to the polls next Tuesday and that they be informed as fully and fairly as possible regarding officials to be elected and issues to be decided.

Much Building In Mansfield

WHEN the extent of Mansfield's "building boom," as shown by permits issued through the first ten months of this year, is considered in connection with the very noticeable suburban development in the Mansfield area, some idea can be gained of the substantial growth now being made by this city, and of betterment in housing facilities.

Issuance of building permits through October, as recorded in yesterday's News-Journal, applies to construction inside the corporation limits and it is only as suburban homes are listed for taxation that a record of the extent of nearby building becomes available.

With likelihood of Mansfield's industrial employment showing further gains, in accord with a general anticipated business upturn, there is at least strong probability that residential construction activity will continue through the remaining two months of 1939 and get away to a good start at the opening of the 1940 season.

Profitable Lunacy

A WRITER in the New York Times makes an interesting suggestion about Hollywood. The "broad streak of lunacy in the movie business," he says, may be due to the California climate. Or on the other hand, the climate may be due to the movies—he isn't quite sure.

"Everybody laughs at Hollywood as well as with Hollywood, but that lunatic touch is part of the screen's charm and success story. It would be sad for everybody concerned if the film industry should move away from California, become perfectly sane and find that it had lost its magic spell over practically the whole human race."

There is an obvious reference to Mayor La Guardia's proposal to move the film industry to New York. The latter city has its own special field and charm, and there is no apparent advantage in combining the two.

News vs. Propaganda

THE BRITISH are said to be concerned because their government does less propagandizing in this country than Germany. It is an unnecessary worry.

The very excess of Nazi publicity has made Americans skeptical of all of it. At the outset of the war, when Germany denied every accusation and every threat of a raid or set-back of a plan, the American listener was inclined to say, "They can't be right all the time! Maybe they're not right any of the time."

Americans will like the British better if they continue to exercise restraint in the matter of organized propaganda. What we want on this side of the water is as much honest news as it is possible to get.

Fritz Kuhn says he loves this country—and Hitler might also be quite favorably impressed.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the soundest axioms on Broadway is that successful playwrights should never write plays for their actress wives, and it is probable, as he reads the reviews, that Charles MacArthur is thinking about that today.

Maybe it was ten years ago that Broadway saw a play built around this theme—"The Play's The Thing." It was the story of a playwright who had become inordinately successful. He was quoted at teas. His dramas and comedies became gold mines for his producers.

It happened that he was married to an actress who was one of the theater's most glamorous women. She wanted her husband to write a play for her, and he refused. She kept after him, and against his better judgment he did. For both it was a disastrous adventure. The play flopped; the star lost much of her hold on the public, and the playwright was never the same man after that.

That was all in a play—ten years ago.

BUT now we come to a present-day playwright, Charles MacArthur, whose wife is Helen Hayes. None will deny that Mr. MacArthur is successful, and none will deny that Miss Hayes isn't one of the first five ladies of the theater.

MacArthur went to work with his side-kick, Ben Hecht, and wrote a play for Miss Hayes. It was "Ladies and Gentlemen," and it opened the other night. Miss Hayes, I am sure, loses none of her grip on the public by this performance, but the cold truth in print, which anyone may read, is that "Ladies and Gentlemen" was rapped by the critics. I think it is with regret that New York's critics rap anything Miss Hayes is in—but this play they could not condone. All of which, I suppose, proves over and over the vagaries of show business. Hecht and MacArthur have earned fortunes writing plays and scenarios to say nothing of sketches and novels and short stories. But the old axiom of writing for your wife apparently still holds.

IT WAS nice seeing Dick Kuhn again, after a summer amid the welter and swelter of the Fair. Back at the Broadway Cocktail Lounge at the Astor, Kuhn and his orchestra perform the interesting feat of playing any song that is requested—and the range is limitless. I imagine they can play three hundred numbers, without music. You simply request it, whether it was written last week or when you were in knee pants, and they play it for you. This, I think, is a prodigious feat of memory.

As requesting these favorites is a pleasant diversion for the customers, the management has provided a list of hundreds of popular numbers, and there is a request board near the band stand on which the waiters write the number of your request. You tell the waiter—the waiter tells Kuhn, and Kuhn plays it.

Hardest working comic today is Milton Berle. Saturday nights he's on radio with his new program, "Stop Me If You've Heard This One." Every night for the after-theater show Milton does his act for the patrons of the International Casino. Eight performances a week finds him in "See My Lawyer." Of the three jokes, Milton works hardest in "See My Lawyer," but his salary for the Broadway production is but a fraction of what he receives for the other two engagements.

Timely Editorial

"Test Case at Pitt."

An article by Francis Wallace in the Saturday Evening Post exposes, with more candor and less pity than any writing we can remember, a situation which has become at least fairly typical in the colleges of the United States.

The Wallace article describes the subsidization of football players at the University of Pittsburgh, the long and bitter struggle between the president of the university and its football coach for control, and the denouement today, as the "Cathedral of Learning" struggles to achieve a logical status of relationship with the football stadium.

Although Pittsburgh is singled out as the immediate target, the article can apply in much of its implication to scores of other American educational institutions.

Pittsburgh is by no means the only school where athletes are subsidized.

The subsidization and professionalization of football is sufficiently bad, but the hypocrisy which surrounds it is infinitely worse. The Pitt situation may set the collegiate world thinking.

More About Women Workers.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE yelps about women not getting the breaks in business—what's your opinion of them? Do you think it's true? Are men really antagonistic to women workers? And if so—what's your explanation?

Here's a typical protest:

Dear Miss Robinson:

Why don't you devote more of your space to defending the woman worker? Surely you must see the continual unfairness we have to endure. I've had fairly good positions with only fairly good pay and, oh, the antagonism of the men toward a woman who is employed in the same line of work.

Perhaps they are not to blame altogether for not taking me seriously, as I am small and of somewhat girlish appearance, and have a personality to match that appearance.

I was talking with a friend of mine this morning, a school teacher, divorced. She said she'd learned you could not use direct methods with men, couldn't be honest and above-board with them but had to continually resort to the supposedly feminine attribute—guile.

Surely there are men who recognize the essential difference of man and woman without the outward idea of which is the superior sex. But if there are such men I've never run across any.

ALICE B.

Why don't men take women workers, seriously? They DO—if women will take themselves seriously. But that's something we're often reluctant to do. Theoretically we have independence and equality—but we can't make up our minds what to do about it? We don't know whether we want to be two-fisted humans or clinging cuties. The truth is, we hope to have our cake and eat it, too.

Take your own case. Did you ever hear a man worker discussing

Cool Reception Of Cold Vaccines.

—By DR. CLENDENING

Editor's Note: Dr. Clendening is inaugurating a new policy in his column. So that he will be able to answer more of the many medical questions sent him by readers, he will occasionally devote his entire column to a discussion of these problems.

ATTEMPTS to prevent colds by immunizing with vaccines are still on trial. Opinions differ as to their value. One person takes the vaccines, has no colds the following winter and concludes that the vaccines did the trick. He will possibly be recommending it to you next week. Then, when you are about persuaded, another fellow comes along who took the same course of vaccines and says he had more colds that winter than ever before.

Colds do funny things and it is hard to draw accurate conclusions from single observations.

At the University of Minnesota they made some carefully-controlled experiments. They took one group of students and gave them, with their own consent, a series of cold vaccine injections. Then they took another group and gave them injections of sterile water, telling them it was to prevent colds. None of the students knew exactly what he was getting.

Got Sterile Water.

Frequently after that a doctor would write and say, "I have a patient who was a student at the University last year and took your cold vaccine with such splendid results that he wants to continue it. Will you be good enough to tell me what vaccines you are using?"

The school doctor would look up the record and find that the person in question got only sterile water.

If the cold vaccines were a success, it would be good news for many large industries. They have enormous time losses with employees who lose a day or two from colds, and would be very glad to have a way to prevent these losses.

So they appraise the value of vaccines with a business-like eye.

They have vaccinated as many as 20,000 employees in one city, but the results have shown no reduction in the incidence of colds.

Don't Know Cause.

There is little scientific sense in the use of vaccines against colds, because we do not know what the cause of the common cold is. It is supposed to be caused by one of the filterable viruses—that group of organisms too small to be seen under a microscope.

There was a report two years ago that the virus had been isolated, but that report has not been confirmed. And no vaccine made from the virus has ever been produced.

Controlled experiments in the use of vaccines are few and far between. The most extensive one was that carried out at the University of Minnesota, to which I have just referred. One large group was given cold vaccines subcutaneously. Another group of equal size was not treated at all. (This was a different experiment from the one in which one group got the sterile water injection.) When the results were tabulated, it was found that the vaccinated one had a reduction of 25 per cent in the number of colds during the following winter. But colds were seldom completely absent.

Political Satirist.

BITTERLY opposed to slavery, David Ross Locke, editor of the Findlay, O. Jeffersonian in the 1860's, was the author of the famous Nasby letters, signed with Locke's pseudonym, Petroleum V. Nasby.

Perversely, the Nasby letters upheld a pro-slavery viewpoint. However, Locke purposely made the arguments so ridiculous and so vulnerable that the readers aligned themselves in opposition to the arguments—a propaganda device used today.

President Abraham Lincoln, an unreserved admirer of Locke's clever technique, often delayed affairs of state in order to quote from the Nasby letters.

Effectiveness of Petroleum V. Nasby was made even greater by Thomas Nast's famous caricatures of the mythical proslavery, in which Nasby was pictured as an illiterate, dastardly individual.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—To the general public, war developments and the neutrality battle in congress have combined to blackout the group of important municipal elections next Tuesday. But not to party leaders, who are watching them with intense interest as significant indicators of the political winds.

Attention is chiefly focused on three elections in three key sections of the country—the east, midwest, and Pacific coast. Each is a contest of a liberal Democrat against an entrenched Republican regime.

In the east the battleground is rockribbed Republican Philadelphia, where Judge Robert E. Lamberton, hand-picked candidate of Joseph Pew, oil-millionaire boss of the local GOP, is opposed by Democratic City Controller Robert C. White on a reform platform backed by some independent Republicans.

Many years of machine rule have bankrupted the city—last year it had to hook its municipal gas plant to raise operating funds—and White is demanding a new deal in local affairs.

The major midwest contest is in Detroit, between Republican Mayor Richard Reading and Edward J. Jeffries, a new Democratic crusader. Thirty-six years old, son of a prominent Democrat who sat on the state bench for 30 years, Jeffries led Reading by better than 5-to-2 in a non-partisan primary early last month. Jeffries is personable and dynamic, and is being groomed by state Democratic chiefs to go after Senator Arthur Vandenberg's scalp next year.

The important west coast fight is in San Francisco, where veteran Mayor Rossi, is being challenged by Representative Frank Havenner, one-time water power crusader, one-time secretary to Senator Hiram Johnson, and a staunch New Dealer. Havenner has the backing of all labor factions plus reform elements.

"Mountain Justice."

THE openly hostile house committee investigating the national labor relations board has held no public hearings as yet, but already it has given the agency a taste of the "mountain justice" it can expect when the proceedings do get under way.

One of the first things Edmund J. Toland, general counsel of the committee, did was to seize the files and records of the union of NLRB employees. An independent organization, the union made no complaint, although it has nothing to do with the affairs of the board. But after a month had rolled by, and its papers and books still were unreturned, union officials found themselves in an embarrassing situation.

They couldn't pay bills, act on grievances by members, or transact any other routine business. Toland had their files and records refused either to release them or allow them to be photostated.

Finally, in an effort to obtain a few dollars for some pressing accounts, George Koplow, union treasurer, asked to be allowed to draw a $15 check. After some wrangling, W. J. Shaughnessy, one of Toland's assistants, agreed, provided Koplow signed the following paper:

"I, George Koplow, having been granted permission to make out a check for $15 for petty cash disbursements as treasurer of the National Labor Relations Board union, do hereby agree to furnish a full accounting of same within two weeks of date. Said permission is granted by W. J. Shaughnessy, investigator-attorney of the committee, to whom said accounting is to be made."

This obvious attempt to harass the union was too much for Robert Condon, union president, who accompanied Koplow. He indignantly rejected the demand and threatened to carry the matter to friendly congressmen. At this Toland hastily back-tracked, returning the

THE openly hostile house committee investigating the national labor relations board has held no public hearings as yet, but already it has given the agency a taste of the "mountain justice" it can expect when the proceedings do get under way.

One of the first things Edmund J. Toland, general counsel of the committee, did was to seize the files and records of the union of NLRB employees. An independent organization, the union made no complaint, although it has nothing to do with the affairs of the board. But after a month had rolled by, and its papers and books still were unreturned, union officials found themselves in an embarrassing situation.

They couldn't pay bills, act on grievances by members, or transact any other routine business. Toland had their files and records refused either to release them or allow them to be photostated.

Finally, in an effort to obtain a few dollars for some pressing accounts, George Koplow, union treasurer, asked to be allowed to draw a $15 check. After some wrangling, W. J. Shaughnessy, one of Toland's assistants, agreed, provided Koplow signed the following paper:

"I, George Koplow, having been granted permission to make out a check for $15 for petty cash disbursements as treasurer of the National Labor Relations Board union, do hereby agree to furnish a full accounting of same within two weeks of date. Said permission is granted by W. J. Shaughnessy, investigator-attorney of the committee, to whom said accounting is to be made."

This obvious attempt to harass the union was too much for Robert Condon, union president, who accompanied Koplow. He indignantly rejected the demand and threatened to carry the matter to friendly congressmen. At this Toland hastily back-tracked, returning the

Neutrality Notes

SENATOR PRENTISS BROWN of Michigan has received more than 25,000 requests from every state in the union for copies of his speech assailing Colonel Lindbergh's neutrality stand.

Administrationites are crediting William Allen White, famed Emporia, Kas., editor, with one of the most effective radio speeches made in defense of lifting the embargo.

Bulky Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin probably has the most neutral record in the senate on the neutrality issue. He voted and talked on practically every side of the controversy. On one amendment, offered by his colleague Senator Bob La Follette, Wiley argued against it and then voted for it.

Digging a Ditch

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE LITTLE stream had made a curve, meandering just beneath a stake and rider fence, and was washing out the roots of a tall black walnut tree. I dug a ditch straight across the narrow strip the bend had partially enclosed, so that the water might flow more freely and more safely.

The top soil was a dry as dust, and very hard. The sharp point of the pick did not go deep at a single stroke, and sparks flew as it hit an occasional flinty rock. But by constant toil, I wore away a deep narrow slice of soil and, though it was not an expert job, it let the water through, and gave me satisfaction.

At first water seeped in upon the lower floor, and my heavy leather plow shoes became weighted with clay to more than twice their size. My overalls were wet and muddy far above my ankles. A spotted lizard crawled from the moistened soil and slid quietly in front of me. Just back of where I stood a pinkish knot of slender worm kept moving, moving, moving like a long twisting piece of animated thread. It writhed about a muddy seam along the side until it tumbled into a pool of muddy water and was lost.

Half way up the bank, even beneath the dry dusty layer, I saw the downward tunnels of the angleworms. I watched a grub worm partially covered within a screen of tiny rootlets, sluggishly raise its head and sever the roots of a thorny timothy stalk. About the sides, I noticed hundreds of little burrows and tube-
